Policy Statement

In Queensland, both the Anti-Discrimination Act 1991 (Qld) and the Disability Discrimination Act 1992 (Cth) regulate disability discrimination in schools. A disability discrimination claim may be brought by a student against a school in either jurisdiction.

Discrimination of students and school employees on the grounds of disability and on certain other specific grounds is also addressed in the School's Anti-Discrimination Policy.

All students at Coolum Beach Christian College have the right to learn in an environment free from unlawful discrimination. Coolum Beach Christian College will provide a fair, supportive and safe learning environment where all students are treated with dignity and are educated in an environment that values and encourages participation by all students. In particular, Coolum Beach Christian College will ensure that students with a disability are provided with opportunities to realise their potential through participating in education and training on the same basis as other students.

The discrimination laws also protect the rights of students who have an associate with a disability. Where this policy refers to discrimination of students, it should also be read to include discrimination of a student who has an associate with a disability.

Coolum Beach Christian College may at times still be required to directly comply with other specific laws which may mean that the school is exempt from having contravened a discrimination law in some circumstances. In limited circumstances, there are also certain public health requirements which schools must comply with which may require a school to isolate, or discriminate against, a student with a disability to protect the health and welfare of the student with the disability or others.

Coolum Beach Christian College will make reasonable adjustments that do not cause unjustifiable hardship to ensure this equality of access and participation.

Coolum Beach Christian College is committed to responding appropriately to allegations of discrimination, harassment or victimisation occur including promptly investigating and bringing possible disciplinary action when warranted against individual employees. The school is also committed to eliminating the harassment and victimisation of students who have a disability. All incidents should be reported under the Coolum Beach Christian College Complaints Handling Policy.

Definitions

Adjustment: A measure or action (or a group of measures or actions) taken by a school that has the effect of assisting a student with a disability:

- (a) in relation to an admission or enrolment — to apply for the admission or enrolment; and
- (b) in relation to a course or program — to participate in the course or program; and
- (c) in relation to facilities or services — to use the facilities or services.

on the same basis as a student without a disability, and includes an aid, a facility, or a service that the student requires because of his or her disability.²

Associate: The Disability Discrimination Act 1992 (Cth) defines 'associate' in relation to a student to include:

- (a) a spouse of the student; or
- (b) another person who is living with the student on a genuine domestic basis; or
- (c) a relative of the student; or
- (d) a carer of the student; or
- (e) another person who is in a business, sporting or recreational relationship with the student.³

The Anti-Discrimination Act 1991 (Qld) makes it unlawful to discriminate against a student because of their association with, or relation to, another person who is identified as having an impairment.

Direct Discrimination: A school directly discriminates against a student on the ground of their disability, if because of the disability, the student is treated, or is proposed to be treated, less favourably than they would be treated without the disability in circumstances that are not materially different.

A school also directly discriminates against a student on the ground of their disability if:

- (a) reasonable adjustments are not made, or proposed to be made, for the student; and
- (b) the failure to make the reasonable adjustments has, or would have, the effect that the student, because of the disability, is treated less favourably than a person without the disability would be treated in circumstances that are not materially different.

Disability: The term 'disability' in this document includes physical, intellectual, psychiatric, sensory, neurological and learning disabilities and is used to encompass both of the legal meanings of 'disability' and 'impairment', being differently defined in State and Commonwealth legislation as follows -

Disability Discrimination Act 1992 (Cth) - 'disability' in relation to a person, means:

- (a) total or partial loss of the person's bodily or mental functions; or
- (b) total or partial loss of a part of the body; or
- (c) the presence in the body of organisms causing disease or illness; or
- (d) the presence in the body of organisms capable of causing disease or illness; or
- (e) the malfunction, malformation or disfigurement of a part of the person's body; or
- (f) a disorder or malfunction that results in the person learning differently from a person without the disorder or malfunction; or
- (g) a disorder, illness or disease that affects a person's thought processes, perception of reality, emotions or judgment or that results in disturbed behaviour.

A 'disability' includes past, present and future disabilities as well as imputed disabilities. A disability otherwise covered by the definition includes behaviour that is a symptom or manifestation of the disability.⁴

- Associate, in relation to a person: includes:
 - a) a spouse of the person
 - b) another person who is living with the person on a genuine domestic basis
 - c) a relative of the person
 - d) a carer of the person
 - e) another person who is in a business, sporting or recreational relationship with the person.
- Direct disability discrimination: a person (the discriminator) discriminates against another person (the aggrieved person) on the ground of a disability of the aggrieved person if, because of the disability, the discriminator treats, or proposes to treat, the aggrieved person less favourably than the discriminator would treat a person without the disability in circumstances that are not materially different.

A person (the discriminator) also discriminates against another person (the aggrieved person) on the ground of a disability of the aggrieved person if:

- a) the discriminator does not make, or proposes not to make, reasonable adjustments for the person
- b) the failure to make the reasonable adjustments has, or would have, the effect that the aggrieved person is, because of the disability, treated less favourably than a person without the disability would be treated in circumstances that are not materially different.

For the purposes of this section, circumstances are not materially different because of the fact that, because of the disability, the aggrieved person requires

Anti-discrimination Act 1991 (Qld) - The term 'disability' is not used in this Act. The term 'impairment' is used, being an attribute for which discrimination is prohibited. Under this Act, 'impairment' in relation to a person is defined to mean:

- (a) the total or partial loss of the person's bodily functions, including the loss of a part of the person's body; or
- (b) the malfunction, malformation or disfigurement of a part of the person's body; or
- (c) a condition or malfunction that results in the person learning more slowly than a person without the condition or malfunction; or
- (d) a condition, illness or disease that impairs a person's thought processes, perception of reality, emotions or judgment or that results in disturbed behaviour; or
- (e) the presence in the body of organisms capable of causing illness or disease; or
- (f) reliance on a guide, hearing or assistance dog, wheelchair or other remedial device; whether or not arising from an illness, disease or injury or from a condition subsisting at birth, and includes an impairment that—
- (g) presently exists; or
- (h) previously existed but no longer exists.⁵

Harassment: Under the Disability Standards for Education 2005 (Cth), harassment means an action taken in relation to a student with disability that is reasonably likely to humiliate, offend, intimidate or distress the student. Harassment of students with disability by school employees is unlawful under the Disability Discrimination Act (1992) (Cth). The Anti-Discrimination Act 1991 (Qld) only prescribes sexual harassment as unlawful.

Indirect Discrimination: A school indirectly discriminates against a student on the grounds of their disability if:

- (a) the school requires, or proposes to require, the student to comply with a requirement or condition; and
- (b) because of the disability, the student does not or would not comply, or is not able or would not be able to comply, with the requirement or condition; and
- (c) the requirement or condition has, or is likely to have, the effect of disadvantaging persons with the disability.

A school also indirectly discriminates against a student on the ground of their disability if:

- (a) the school requires, or proposes to require, the student to comply with a requirement or condition; and
- (b) because of the disability, the student would comply, or would be able to comply, with the requirement or condition only if the school made reasonable adjustments for the student, but the school does not do so or proposes not to do so; and
- (c) the failure to make reasonable adjustments has, or is likely to have, the effect of disadvantaging persons with the disability.

Unjustifiable hardship: The term unjustifiable hardship is defined differently in the Commonwealth and State legislation as follows -

Anti-Discrimination Act 1991 (Qld) - It can be lawful to discriminate on the basis of impairment where special services or facilities are needed for a student with an impairment, and supplying these would impose an unjustifiable hardship on the school. Factors that are relevant include the nature of the special service or facility, cost of supplying it, the number of people to benefit, the financial circumstances of the organisation, the disruption that the supplying of those services or facilities might cause and the nature of any benefit or detriment to all people concerned.

Disability Discrimination Act 1992 (Cth) - In determining whether a hardship that would be imposed on a school would be an unjustifiable hardship, all relevant circumstances of the particular case must be taken into account, including the following:

- (a) the nature of the benefit or detriment likely to accrue to, or to be suffered by, any person concerned, including the community; and
- (b) the effect of the disability of any person concerned; and
- (c) the financial circumstances, and the estimated amount of expenditure required to be made, by the school; and
- (d) the availability of financial and other assistance to the school.

Victimisation: Under the Disability Discrimination Act (1992) (Cth), it is unlawful for a person to commit an act of victimisation against another person. The offence is made out in various circumstances where a person subjects, or threatens to subject, another person to detriment on the ground of various matters, for example, that they have made an allegation, raised a complaint or brought proceedings for disability discrimination. The offence differs under the Anti-Discrimination Act (1991) (Qld).
